Disaster Relief UPDATE

Louisiana

While the floodwaters have receded in Louisiana, the real work is just beginning. Bellevue continues to work with a local church to help their community rebuild from the floods. Please be in prayer for Kenny Street and Kent Mathis, who are leading a team to Louisiana today. In addition to sending teams, we have helped purchase building materials for a rebuilding process that will continue for the foreseeable future.

Haiti

Hurricane Matthew did extensive damage to the country of Haiti and many people lost their lives. One of the hardest-hit regions is an area in which Bellevue previously provided assistance following the devastating earthquake of 2010. Officials say it is too early to send relief teams; however, Bellevue is sending funds through the local ministry SMI Haiti.

East Coast of the U.S.

Hurricane Matthew has caused flooding and wind damage all along the east coast. Bellevue is working through Tennessee Disaster Relief as needed, and we have received requests to send chainsaw teams and chaplains to the Savannah area.

What You Can Do

1. Pray for

- God's wisdom, strength, and organization for teams assisting those affected by the storms.
- For many to come to faith in Christ as they see how earthly things break and heavenly things last.
- Restoration of hearts, homes, churches, businesses, and communities.

2. Give. Note on your check, envelope, or online giving: "Bellevue Disaster Relief."

3. Go. If you've been trained in Disaster Relief and would like to volunteer, please contact Kent Mathis in the Missions Office at (901) 347-5540.
